VALLEY MEMBERS OF C. OF C. MEET IN GLENDALE

Affair Is Held With Local Chamber; Interesting
Speakers on Program

Members of the Associated Chamber of Commerce of the San Fernando valley held a dinner and meeting last night at the local chamber headquarters. About sixty were present at the affair.

The visitors from practically every city in the valley were welcomed to Glendale by President V. M. Hollister.

The first speaker of the evening was Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of the Civics committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, whose subject was "Community Co-operation."

"No organization can be successful that limits its activities to any one community," she said.

William Herwig entertained the gathering with several solos which were well received.

"All roads lead to Glendale," declared Lon Haddock, who spoke to the members of the greatness of Southern California and its future.

"Upon us depends the foundation for future growth. We should plan not bigger cities but better cities."

Most Popular Man
The most popular man in the world was declared to be the one who goes elsewhere and lets folks know he is from California. The speaker for a better understanding among Californians as to their state's greatness was pointed out by Mr. Haddock, who said that an even greater effort should be made to sell the state to people already here, instead of "selling at long range" as he put it.

By this method of understanding, the people would advertise the section in which they are living to an even greater extent than advertising matter now being sent, it was declared.

As a method of securing this information he suggested the holding of community days when the various activities could be pointed out to the people of the valley.

In closing Mr. Haddock praised the work of the Chamber of Commerce organizations of the valley, declaring that the real clubs of the valley should be the chambers of commerce.

Mr. F. Rutledge was the next speaker, outlining the chiropractic initiative act, up for vote November 7, which creates a board of chiropractic examiners.

Says Hands Tied
He declared that at the present time the hands of the profession are tied, and the members of the present board are not educated in chiropractic. The act would create a separate board for the examining of those who desire to (Continued on Page 10)

C. F. Parker Tells of Middle West Visit

"A good country to look at but a better one to get away from," that is the description given to the various sections of Iowa, Kansas and Missouri visited by C. F. Parker of 221 North Central avenue, who with his wife has just returned from a several weeks' tour of that section. Mr. Parker was the California delegate to the Sons of Veterans' encampment, which was held at Des Moines, Iowa, in connection with the G. A. R. encampment.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker visited relatives and friends in Des Moines whom they had not seen in many years. Mr. Parker also enjoyed a visit to the high school which he attended over forty years ago and gave a talk to over 100 ex-service men who were receiving instruction there. Mr. Parker says:

"It was almost impossible to get any California news in Des Moines as the papers there do not like to publish any. Everything in and about California looked very prosperous but the weather was beginning to get cold. Among other cities visited by us were Stuart and Panama, Iowa, Kansas City, Pittsburgh, Kansas, Joplin and other places in the southwest part of Missouri. A large number of people are planning to visit California this winter from the middle western and central states. The meeting of the G. A. R. and Sons of Veterans will be held next year at Milwaukee. We were delayed for nineteen hours on our return trip on account of a freight train wreck in Oklahoma. California certainly looks good to us."

Arts, Crafts Section Is Proving Popular

Mrs. James was appointed temporary curator. This section, when organized, will meet the second and fourth Mondays of each month in the art department at Pendroy's.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 25.—The story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, mysterious eye witness of the murder of Rev. Edward W. Both witnesses fixed the time of the shooting at between 9:30 and 10 o'clock on the night of Thursday, September 14. The stories tally as to the agonized cries of one of the two women on the scene who begged for mercy and uttered the name of a man as the shooting began. ## C. OF C. DIRECTORS TO BE SELECTED BY PETITIONS

Change in Method Decided Upon by Vote of 15 to 10
at Tuesday Meeting

Among other important matters brought up at the meeting of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce yesterday noon was the proposed changing of the method of electing directors, and the appointing of a committee to investigate the tax situation as it is affecting the city.

The meeting yesterday was featured by a debate as to the best method to electing directors for the association. While the best of spirit prevailed during the meeting, dangers as to "sectionalism" were pointed out under the change, as adopted by a vote of 15 to 10.

Change Is Made
The change as adopted is from the primary to the petition form for nominating directors. The change was explained to have a tendency to distribute the members of the board over the entire city. The method of nominating as adopted follows:

(a) Nominations of directors: Any member in good standing may be nominated for the board of directors by petition of ten members in good standing, provided such petition is filed with the secretary at least fifteen days prior to the date of election, and that no member may sign more petitions than there are directors to be elected.

As the petition form has been adopted, it was announced by Secretary James M. Rhoades that nomination blanks will be mailed at once to members and organizations and that they may be obtained from the secretary.

Election November 28
The petition must be filed fifteen days previous to election, which is to be held November 28. Six directors are to be selected each year to serve for two years, making a hold over of half the board each year. This year it will be necessary to elect seven (Continued on Page 7)

Frank C. Ayars was elected to the council succeeding C. H. Crawford who has resigned. It is announced that the executive board will recommend to the national council the appointment of Mr. Ayars as Deputy Scout Commissioner for Glendale.

Four Definite Proposals by Architects Considered In Making Choice

Glendale is to have a new high school with a capacity of 2500 pupils with an auditorium to accommodate 2000 students and without either shops or gymnasiums, according to the decision reached last night by the high school board of trustees.

"You are going to have a high school that you will be proud of," asserted Architect John C. Austin of Pasadena. "It will be a building that the whole district will be proud of, too. I think it will be ready by the first of next September. We will be ready to ask for bids in about four weeks."

Last night's session of the board, which was held as usual in the high school, was attended by all members of the board. Both Mr. Austin and his associates in this work, George Lindsey of 719 East Broadway, were present. F. M. Ashley of Mr. Austin's office was there also. Principal George U. Moyses and Vice Principal A. L. Ferguson attended in an advisory capacity.

Four Propositions
Four definite proposals were made by the architects: First, class rooms for 2700; auditorium for 2000; shop building; no study halls; no gymnasiums.

Second, class rooms for 2700 pupils; with study halls; no auditorium; no shops; no gymnasiums. Third, complete high school for 1800 pupils; auditorium for 2000 students; shop building; no gymnasiums.

Fourth, high school for 2500 students; auditorium for 2000 pupils; no shops or gymnasiums.

Lengthy Discussion
Principal Moyses expressed himself much in favor of the fourth plan. He suggested the possibility of using the present shop building in connection with the new plant. He was in favor of keeping the class room capacity of the school as large as possible in order that it might not be outgrown the first year. He stated that it would be easier to secure a smaller bond issue later with which to add shops or gymnasiums.

After discussion lasting about half an hour, the board voted to approve the fourth plan. The one dissenting vote was that of H. W. Yarik of 347 West Wilson avenue, who voted in favor of the third plan. He expressed his opinion that a complete high school plant for 1800 students would be better than an incomplete plant for 2500.

The possibility of being able to save enough in securing an exceptionally low bid to provide funds for the construction of gymnasiums was suggested by Mr. Austin. He called attention to the fact that the bids might vary as much as $50,000.

Provide for Equipment
Equipment for the new plant will cost between $50,000 and $75,000 in the opinion of Dan Campbell. This estimate was endorsed by the architects. Provision has been made for this expenditure.

The plan endorsed by the board of having a plant without shops or gymnasiums is the same scheme under which Los Angeles High school has been operating until recently, according to Mr. Austin. He said that it had the advantage of enabling the district to add the lacking units at any time without the necessity of the whole plant being limited in size at the beginning.

By working at top speed to revise the plans, which were completed some time before the election, Mr. Ashley said that they could be bid upon in about four weeks. A number of copies of them are to be sent to Glendale so that local contractors will have opportunity to bid. The contract will be awarded by the high school board of trustees which is required by school law to accept the bid of the lowest responsible bidder.

FOUL PLAY OR SUICIDE
MOSCOW, Oct. 25.—Colonel William Haskell, head of the American relief administration, today began a personal investigation of the disappearance of Ralph Shield, an American relief administration worker. His hat was found upon the bank of the Volga river, indicating either foul play or suicide.

RUSSIAN FEATURES ARE OFFERED AT BUSINESS CLUB

Music and Address Prove of Interest; Plans to Greet Federation

A most interesting social meeting of the members of the Business and Professional Women's club of which Dr. Laura Brown is president, was held last night at the club rooms, 126 South Maryland, when a group of Russian pupils and teachers were given by Miss Alma Geiger, talented Glendale pianist, followed by a talk on "Russian Peasantry" by Baroness Ottilie de Ropp. An evening of fun typical of the Halloween season followed the program.

Colorful decorations of orange and black festoons, black cats, pumpkins, etc., were in evidence throughout the club rooms. Hunting peanuts provided a great deal of merriment. Dr. Brown collected the largest number and was awarded the prize, a ghost doll. Those desiring to learn what the future had in store for them had their fortunes told either by palmistry or tea grounds. Refreshments of tea, rusks and popovers were served. The Halloween features of the evening and decorations were in charge of Mrs. J. B. Walton and Mrs. Peggy Warner.

Talks About Russia
In her talk Baroness de Ropp told of how Russia, on account of the bolshevik, had lost its position as one of the largest producers of grain and coal in the world and its people were now, a great many of them, starving. In telling of the value of the Russian ruble she stated that before the war the American dollar was equivalent to two rubles and now a dollar was equivalent to 4,000,000 rubles.

"Unless the peasants are allowed to keep what they produce on their land they will not work. As it is, the bolshevik take away from them the greater part of their products, and they will only work when they are forced to," Baroness de Ropp stated. A description of the peasants' homes, furnishings, transportation, etc., was also included in this most interesting talk.

The piano numbers given by Miss Geiger included "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" (Rachmaninoff), "Polichinelle" (Rachmaninoff) and "Danse Russe."

Dr. Brown announced that the Glendale club would be host to the Los Angeles County Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs at a turkey dinner and program to be given at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium Thursday night, November 2, at 6:30 o'clock, tickets to be $1. This will be the first time that the local club has been hostess to the county federation, which includes eleven clubs. It is anticipated that there will be from fifty to seventy-five out-of-town guests present. Mrs. Kemper Campbell will be one of the speakers of the evening, her topic to be "Finding One's Proper Vocation." The Glendale club will hold open house at the club rooms from 5 o'clock until 6:30 o'clock the night of the dinner.

Another interesting feature of the evening was the instruction given by Mrs. Nanno Woods in the two fundamental steps of the fox-trot.

STEEL, BRICK WORK SOON STARTS ON NEW CHURCH

Let Two Large Contracts for Home Being Erected for Presbyterians

Steel and brick work will start simultaneously within the next couple of days on the new Presbyterian church.

Construction of this edifice is keeping pace with its building schedule according to Robert Bird, superintendent for Architect Robert H. Orr. However, he is anxious lest the work shall be delayed because of inability to obtain necessary building material. He is hopeful of having enough of the work finished so that the cornerstone can be laid on Thanksgiving day.

The foundation is now ready for the superstructure. Besides the concrete piers sunk into the earth, the entire basement is surrounded with concrete walls a foot thick. Altogether eight carloads of cement has been used. Each car contained an average of 900 100-pound sacks making a total of about 720,000 pounds of cement.

Steel Work Contract
The Baker Iron Works of Los Angeles has been given the contract for the steel work. This will cost in the neighborhood of $11,000. The largest girder is the one which will support the balcony. That is fifty-three feet long and weighs 100 pounds per linear foot or five tons altogether. Two other large trusses, which are about sixty-eight feet long, will cost $2000 apiece. Smaller trusses will weigh between fifty-four and 100 pounds per linear foot.

Transportation of the steel from Los Angeles to the job is expected to start at once. It will be carried on motor trucks and trailers. Mr. Bird estimated that about two beams can be brought (Continued on Page 10)

Realty Board Adopts New Listing System

At a meeting last night of the Glendale Realty board it was decided to adopt a new multiple listing system for Glendale. The matter has been under consideration for some time and a committee of which E. P. Hayward is chairman, presented rules and regulations governing the new system.

Although the vote last night is said to have been decidedly in favor of the new system, members who were not present are to have an opportunity to vote on the proposition and were given a week in which to cast their vote.

The meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce lobby, starting at 7:30 and lasting until 11:15. Nearly forty members and associate members were present.

Each section of the rules and regulations was voted upon and many changes and additions made. This matter is said to have occupied the entire evening. Members were urged to attend the meeting this noon at which a debate was held on the amendment to give the state railroad commission jurisdiction over the granting of all franchises both inside as well as outside corporate city limits.

McNitt in Los Angeles and elected the officers of their building organization which is to build a Masonic home in Eagle Rock. This building organization has already been incorporated, and the following officers were elected:

James Roberts, president; J. Hartley Taylor, vice-president; R. L. McNitt, secretary, and M. T. Lee, treasurer.

The president and secretary were authorized to apply to the state of California for the necessary authority to raise a building fund to erect the building.

Legion Auxiliary In Afternoon Meet

A large gathering of ladies attended the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Eagle Rock Post of the American Legion held yesterday afternoon in the public library.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Frank Prindle, and the result of the membership drive that has been in progress for some time disclosed that there were fourteen new members. Mrs. A. R. Rose won the prize of a gold legion pin for securing the most new members; her work in the membership drive resulting in the addition of eight members.

Will Help Vets
The invalid veterans that are now inmates of the government hospital in Compton came up for discussion, and it was decided to send literature and reading matter to them to help while away the weary hours in the hospital.

Mrs. Prindle and Mrs. Hanson were appointed a committee to visit the hospital and make a report which it is understood they will do within the near future. It was decided to have a joint reception for the new members on December 5, at which both the Legion and the Auxiliary are to take part.

Attention was also called to the luncheon in Los Angeles on November 10, and it was requested that those desiring reservations should communicate with Mrs. A. R. Rose, Garvanza 2649 not later than Monday of that week.

UNITED THEATRE IS READY FOR BIG OPENING SHOW

Entertaining Program Will Be Event Tomorrow Night In Eagle Rock

Tomorrow night will witness the formal opening of the beautiful new United Theatre in Eagle Rock, with a program that is declared to be a fitting example of the high standard of entertainment that has been promised by the management.

The feature of the program for the opening night will be the showing of the super-comedy, "The Ladder Jinx," starring the former Majestic matinee idol, Edward Everett Horton, whose meteoric rise in filmdom is declared to have had few parallels. He is supported by a cast including Tully Marshall, Otis Harland, Margaret Landis and many others in the comedy that deals with superstitions.

Larry Semon, in "Golf," will also be shown. This is the first of his big comedy specials of the new season, and claimed to be one of his best.

Cartoon on Bill
"Felix, the Crazy Cat," in Pat Sullivan's clever cartoon, is also on the bill.

Richard Coburn, California's famous song writer, will appear in person singing a number of his own songs, and there will also be several surprise numbers, it is announced.

The theatre itself is receiving its final touches today, and tonight there will be a showing of the films to officials of the theatre to test out the projection machines.

A beautiful grand piano was installed in the orchestra pit yesterday afternoon, and but few minor touches remain to have every detail in readiness for the opening.

The interior decorations done by a local artist are declared to rank second in artistic beauty to but few theatres in this section, including Los Angeles.

The projection room is a marvel of mechanical genius. It is complete in every detail.

It contains two of the very latest projection machines and spot lights of a type used in the biggest theatres in Los Angeles. Practically everything works automatically, and as an example of minute detail the equipment includes a pair of powerful field glasses that will bring out the slightest defect in the showing of the picture as it is being thrown on the screen, a defect that might only be seen by a person sitting in the front row, but by means of the field glasses the operator can instantly note the slightest imperfection as it appears directly on the screen.

One of the most novel safety-first features in the projection room is the fact that should only be seen by a person sitting in the front row, but by means of the field glasses the operator can instantly note the slightest imperfection as it appears directly on the screen.

Radium will make a real diamond sparkle in the dark, while it has no effect on an imitation,

BENEFIT DANCE TO BE GIVEN FRIDAY FOR BALL TEAM

Proceeds to Go Into Club's Treasury for Uniforms and Other Equipment

A benefit dance for the Eagle Rock Merchants baseball club is to be given Friday night at the Twentieth Century club in Eagle Rock.

This is the first of a series of twenty dances to be sponsored by the Dahlia City dancing club, of which M. T. Hancock of the Hancock Music company is the director in charge.

Proceeds from the dance to be given Friday night are to go into the treasury of the baseball club, to provide new uniforms and other equipment that the club now lacks on account of insufficient money. It is expected that a large number of baseball fans in Eagle Rock will attend the dance, declares Mr. Hancock.

K. of C. Drive Aid to Clubhouse Plans

The new Knights of Columbus clubhouse depends to a certain extent upon the success of the drive for membership now being waged by Glendale Council 1920.

"Of course we are going to have a clubhouse here in the near future," remarked Grand Knight Harry Girard this morning. "But the operation of every man in Glendale, who is eligible to membership in this organization, will be a big assistance."

The success of the first half of the drive was commented upon by Mr. Girard. It has resulted in applications from over 105 prospective members.

However, he continued, "There are 400 or 500 men in Glendale who are eligible for membership, and we will not consider the drive a complete success unless every one of them is a member of this organization."

"Columbianism is three in one. It is civic, religious and fraternal. It is one of the biggest and best institutions in the world today, only second to the church itself. Glendale Council aims to take its proper place among the more important civic organizations of this city."

Will Hear Evidence Phillips Case Today

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—The taking of evidence in the case of Clara Phillips, alleged "hammer murderer" of Alberta Meadows, on trial for her life, was scheduled to start today immediately after the selection of an alternate juror who will sit throughout the trial and serve in case of emergency. The jury that will decide Mrs. Phillips' fate was completed late yesterday. It consists of nine men and three women.

GASOLINE PRICES DROP
J. W. Arnold, proprietor of the tire shop and filling station at 214 East Colorado was one of the first in Eagle Rock to receive notice of the drop in price of gasoline yesterday.

"It is remarkable how the motoring public appreciate a drop in the price of gasoline even if it is only a cent," he declared.

PETITION FAVORS RELEASING MAN UNDER ARREST

Eagle Rock Citizens Request That F. W. Link Be Freed on Fire Permit Charge

A petition was being circulated in Eagle Rock yesterday recommending to Judge Harold I. Cruzan that the signers believe that F. W. Link, who was sentenced to fifteen days in the county jail Monday morning for starting a fire without first obtaining a permit, had been sufficiently punished, and calling upon Judge Cruzan to take whatever steps were necessary to obtain his release.

The petition had the signature of practically every member of the Eagle Rock really board, and a large number of the merchants and residents of the city.

As Milton H. Berry, Jr., one of the sponsors for the petition explained it, "Link pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to the minimum jail term, but we believe a day or two in jail has taught him just as good a lesson as if he spends the whole fifteen days behind the bars, and for that reason we are obtaining these signatures in the hope that it may have some influence in obtaining his release."

Give New Version
Several of Mr. Link's friends were in the News office yesterday to give what they state is the correct version of the affair.

They state that Mr. Link did start the fire on the lots on Hill avenue, but that he did not let the fire burn out as reported. On the contrary, they claim that Link made every effort to put the fire out before it had burned out, and to the best of his knowledge and belief the fire was out when he left for a trip to Van Nuys to purchase some nursery stock, and that Claude Bramble, Eagle Rock fire chief, drove by shortly before Link left, and that Link was not arrested until late in the afternoon of the same day.

They also stated that they wish to correct the impression that Link was arrested and convicted for starting the big fire that raged in the hills all day Sunday. The Eagle Rock Daily News carried a story of Link's arrest exclusively on Monday, and reported the matter stating "Link was charged with setting fire to vegetation within the corporate limits of Eagle Rock without first obtaining a permit from the fire marshal," which was the exact reading of the complaint filed against him.

Eagle Rock C. of C. Membership Growing

George Van Sands, chairman of the membership committee of the Chamber of Commerce reports favorably on the manner in which application for membership are being brought into his office by members of the committee.

"Perhaps the most prominent member we have secured so far was yesterday when Dr. J. C. Shedd brought in the application of Remsen DuBois Bird, president of Occidental college," he declared.

Seek Fund for Aid of Disabled Veterans

Enthusiastic preparations are being made all over Southern California for commemoration of Saturday, November 4, as "Forget-me-not day," with a money-raising campaign for the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, to provide funds to aid crippled soldiers who came home physically disabled from overseas.

Proclaimed a state holiday by Governor Stephens and heartily endorsed by President Harding, the drive is being given nationwide impetus. Every loyal hearted American who remembers the sacrifices of the men over there will be tagged with a forget-me-not on "Forget-me-not day." Mayors of thirty cities in the southland are aiding the cause by heading sub-committees in their various localities.

Marco Hellman, Los Angeles banker, is general chairman of the citizens' committee in charge of the campaign, and among his Angeleno aides are E. A. Dickson, A. Frank, L. Nordlinger, Mayor George E. Cryer, Leonard B. Hirsch, W. W. Mines, Leo Jacoby, Judge Bertin A. Weyl, W. A. Bonyne, F. W. Braun, Rex W. Laws, Dr. James A. Francis, Dr. Rea Smith, C. A. Fellows, Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, Joseph Scott, Mrs. Rodman Robinson, A. B. Hassell, Charles H. Toll and the Rev. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher. Contributions for the relief of the disabled living victims of the war will be collected entirely by volunteer workers.

Plans for the observance of "Forget-me-not day" include a big military parade in Los Angeles on November 4, in which detachments of sailors, soldiers, national guardsmen, firemen and policemen are expected to participate. Various civic and women's organizations, also the Boy Scouts likewise, will be in line, while the maimed and stricken men who have suffered through their service to Uncle Sam will be the pathetic note in the procession.

Wealthy Architect Is Killed In Fall

In the Interests Of Public Health

It costs the taxpayers of California $125,000 annually for the medical board to carry on its prosecution of chiropractors, their competitors.

The medical board, not the district attorneys of the respective counties, is carrying on this war of attempted extermination of chiropractors and chiropractic.

Dr. Dana L. Tasker, who for fourteen years was a member of the medical board, stated that the medical control of osteopathy has been absolutely unfair and unjust.

If in fourteen years osteopathy could not find a way to get a square deal under the medical board, is it not stupid to think of placing chiropractic under medical control?

In twenty-two states provision has been made for licensing chiropractors by separate state boards of chiropractic examiners, having thus made state medicine impossible in such states.

State medicine is no less un-American than state religion, and political medicine is fighting its hardest to establish state medicine.

But some one says what does "State Medicine" mean?

State medicine in its literal interpretation simply means that the people cease to have any voice as to what they themselves might desire in matters of their own health, the health of their family or that of their community.

It means that all authority will be given into the hands of one board or commission of medical doctors whose duty it shall be to carry out the mandates of a law granting such authority, and they the court of last resort.

It means that you will have no voice as to whether you or your children shall be subjected to serum inoculation, vaccination or powerful drug medication. In fact anything that might appeal to the whims of such authorities will make you victims of experiment for such whims whether practical or not.

It means that the schools of the state will become experiment stations for the experience of young medical doctors, and your right to think "out loud" even will be prohibited.

There are still those today who, either as a result of compromise medical legislation, conceded for political reasons, or constitutional religious liberty, are granted the right to determine their own destiny in matters of health and at present are not bound by the shackles of medical domination. But when the right and left wing of medical freedom, namely, osteopathy and chiropractic, have been defeated, those who now feel themselves secure, will be next in line of attack.

Who Is Expert In Photography

Wide experience in photographic work is the background of the camera shop conducted at 214 1/2 North Brand boulevard of S. E. Woodson. Mr. Woodson learned his trade in a photographic gallery at Quincy, Illinois, and since that time he has held responsible positions which have given him splendid qualifications for opening a shop of his own. For twelve years Mr. Woodson had charge of the amateur finishing for a drug store with two branches at Peoria, Ill., and during the past five years he has been employed at a department studio, where all branches of his trade were handled.

After years of confining work Mr. Woodson decided to motor to California and he and Mrs. Woodson came to Glendale because they had relatives and friends here. "We were more than pleased to find Glendale such a progressive city," says Mr. Woodson, "and when we heard the progress it has made in the last ten years we decided to open a business here."

"We have rented a store at 214 1/2 North Brand boulevard and Mrs. Woodson and I will do our best to get all that is in your kodak films. ### IN YOUR NEIGHBOR'S PEACH ORCHARD

"Do not straighten your hat when you pass through your neighbor's peach orchard or stoop to tie your shoe when you are passing through his melon patch."

The above is an old Chinese proverb and, as you have already realized, is the Chinaman's more picturesque method of saying "Avoid the appearance of evil."

Sees Nothing to Praise

I oftentimes find myself thinking of that proverb. For instance I have recently met a woman whose husband writes short stories. They are good short stories but not any better than many other men and women are writing. Knowing that she is interested in things literary, I sometimes talk about magazines with her. I have never heard that woman speak a good word for any writer who writes for any of the magazines in which his stories appear. According to her, there is something wrong with all of them. One is too flippant, another too obvious, another is too tiresome. Once in a while she gives a guarded word of praise to some author but it is always some one who writes a totally different style of story from her husband and could never be considered a competitor of his.

If She Knew How It Sounded

Now, it is possible, of course, that that woman really does not care for any of the other authors who write stories similar to those her husband writes and, in the opinion of the average person, write them quite as well. And then again it is quite possible that she is prejudiced against his competitors by personal feelings. I wouldn't dare to say. But this I will say, that if that woman realized how it appears to the casual beholder, she wouldn't stoop to tie her shoe in her neighbor's melon patch or reach up to straighten her hat in his peach orchard. She would probably make an effort to say an occasional nice thing about some other writer even if she had to strain the truth.

A Hint to Wives

If wives would only realize this they would be less quick to say catty things about the women their husbands admire. The husband is pretty sure to sense the motive, and while he may not acknowledge it to her and sometimes not even to himself, nevertheless that consciousness has its inevitable effect on his reactions toward her and the other woman.

Often the wife herself would claim there was no jealousy at the bottom, and perhaps there isn't any in the conscious mind. But it's a superhuman person who understands what's in his own subconscious mind.

And as long as you are in your neighbor's peach orchard—well, why not wait until some less conspicuous occasion to straighten your hat. If you can't think of anything kindly to say that won't be too much of a strain at least you can say nothing.

Which applies to anyone who is passing through a peach orchard or a melon patch of any nature.

Diet and Health By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Authors of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Dear Doctor: "Every time I pass a mirror and see my front elevation and my too, too solid waist I think of you, Mrs. J. B."

I like that! We will have to change that reflection if it is going to make you think of me for 10 years ago, too, too solid some years ago. The instructions on reducing have been sent.

A. E. S.—You can reduce your blood pressure by reducing your weight. It is the surest thing you know. Send for our instructions on losing weight.

F. F. D.—No, it is not dangerous nor foolish to try those mud masks that are advertised. I doubt very much if they will give the marvelous results that are promised, but there is no doubt that they do cause the blood to come to the face and will contract the pores. Whether or not they might have some ill effects on prolonged use, I do not know, but I imagine not.

The basis of them is Fuller's Earth. You can get ten cents worth of that at any drug store and mix a little glycerin solution (glycerin, one-fourth, water or rose water, three-fourths) and that will make a beautiful mask. I know, for I have tried it. This amount will make material for six or seven applications.

Fuller's Earth is a soft clay, so called because it was formerly much used in "filling" or cleansing grease from woolen cloths. It is found in many localities in England, and in some places in the United States.

At Coney Island, recently, in the making of a new beach, quantities of this clay was pumped up from the sea bottom. And as soon as the news of the discovery spread there were crowds gathered to get some of the mud. They gave themselves beauty treatments on the spot. And then after lying on the beach in the sun and drying, they washed it off in the ocean.

If you use this Fuller's Earth mask, don't leave it on more than five minutes or so after it gets dry and begins to pull, and don't apply it unless you are going to remain indoors, for an hour or so because it takes that long to get your color back to normal. The white of eggs applied and allowed to dry is just as "pulling" and just as good, I imagine.

Apply your glycerin and rose water solution after you take your masks off. I am glad you like Sockums.

Mrs. M. P.—Shingles is a form of herpes zoster (Herpes from the Greek, meaning to creep, and zoster meaning girdle). It is an acute inflammatory inflammation of the skin along the course of certain nerves.

Herpes zoster may affect any part of the body, but the term shingles is applied when it affects the nerves along the ribs. It is usually on one side and there is an old superstition that if it goes around to the other side and meets, it is fatal. This is nonsense.

The important part of the treatment is to prevent the breaking of the vesicles. Dusting powders such as oxide of zinc and bismuth are used and a soft bandage is put on. The text books say that flexible collodion painted on the spots seem to abort many of them. A 50 per cent water solution of Icthyol is said to be one of the best methods of treatment.

It is usually a self-limited disorder which is brought about by some toxic condition in the system or some outside irritation of the nerves. It is more frequent in children than in adults.

HORSEADISH BLEACH

Everyone knows that horseadish is the most effective complexion bleach, yet very few know how it should be made. It sounds so dangerous to experiment with!

As a matter of fact it is perfectly simple. All you do is scrape a teaspoonful of horseadish into a cup of sour milk and let it stand six hours before you use it. It can stand longer, so if you do not use the entire cupful it can be put away and used in a day or two. It will not make the skin smart and it can be applied two or three times a day.

Some skins are so sensitive that anything will make them smart. Should it, by any chance, begin to sting it can be rinsed off; in any case it must be washed off after it has dried in.

This is an excellent bleach for an obstinate case of tanning and for most ordinary cases of freckles. It is more effective than washing the face and arms in fresh buttermilk, though buttermilk itself is a splendid bleach and particularly good for dry complexions and for gray, coarse-grained skin. Both buttermilk and sour milk contain a fair proportion of what chemists call lactic acid, which, in concentrated or synthetic form, is found in most complexion bleaches.

I always prefer some simple home made bleach to the expensive and complicated preparations purchased ready made. Not all such preparations are to be trusted. Strong bleaches will dry the skin; many that are too strong will induce premature wrinkles. Honey, which is a splendid bleach and almond milk, which is both bleach and tonic, are very good.

Typewriter Expert to Open Agency Here

H. C. Schumacher, who has been identified with large typewriter agencies for a considerable number of years, will open an establishment in Glendale about November 1st, which will be known as the Glendale Typewriter Shop and have the sales agency for Royal and Corona typewriters in Glendale.

In addition to the selling of new machines, much attention will be paid to selling, renting and repairing all makes of used typewriters. A stock of stenographic supplies will also be kept, and all work will receive Mr. Schumacher's personal attention, he states.

SOUPS

Soup taken at the beginning of a meal starts the digestive juices and prepares the stomach for the heavier food that is to follow. Clear, stimulating soups are, for this reason, the accepted dinner soup.

Cream soups are more nutritious than those made with meat, because they contain vegetables and milk, which have greater food value. Such soups are best adapted to luncheons and for children's meals. A good rule to follow is to precede a heavy dinner with a clear soup and a light or "pick-up" dinner with a cream soup. For luncheon, especially for children and old people, a cream soup, with bread and butter might form the entire meal.

The milk or cream soup holds first place among the liquid foods. It should be given to children to help in the consumption of the requisite one quart of milk a day. For the person who is fatigued, there is no better food than a hot cream soup. Cream soups are the best sort of nourishment no matter what the occasion.

Nearly every vegetable and green that we use may contribute a seasoning or considerable substance to one of these soups, and a great number of combinations may be made by varying proportions.

A very good foundation for cream soups, practical for all ordinary occasions, is made as follows: Blend two tablespoonfuls of flour with two tablespoonfuls of melted fat or oil. Heat one quart of milk in the double boiler; when warm, pour a little of the milk over the flour mixture, stirring rapidly until smooth. Add more milk, continue stirring and stir this mixture in the hot milk in the double boiler. Stir until smooth and creamy and add seasoning—one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper, a bit of cayenne, one-half teaspoonful of scraped onion, a bit of parsley, or celery salt if desired. To this foundation may be added one or two cupfuls—according to fancy—of well-cooked vegetable pulp (cooked vegetable put through the colander). A teaspoonful of whipped cream is a great addition to cream soups, if one wishes to afford it.

The puree is thick soup, but not thick enough to be a stew. Puree of the legumes, that is peas, beans of all varieties, and lentils, are heavy enough made of but one ingredient besides water and seasoning to form a meal with bread and butter and that is as hearty as an ordinary woman should eat at luncheon. These need long cooking and should be started by soaking overnight. The more they are cooked the more wholesome they are.

Thick soups and chowders should be eaten as the hearty dish of the meal. They supply all the nutrition and bulk that the system needs at a meal.

We have always heard so much about the wonderful soups that the French housewives make out of the merest scraps or out of the barest and nice vegetable seasoning, that we have almost lost sight of the "Soupe Maigre." This is a vegetable soup without any broth foundation, and is most delicious. When we think of vegetable soup we usually think of a meat stock foundation, but a very good vegetable soup may be made without any meat.

With clear soups pass bread sticks or half slices of bread. Serve tiny crotons (bread cut into dice and fried in deep fat or sautéed in a little fat or oil), with cream of tomato, pea, bean or lentil soup. Serve toasted crackers or bread with fish soup. Water crackers are best liked with fish chowders.

Crisp celery stalks, radishes and olives are very acceptable relishes to accompany soups. Copyright, Cronk Syndicate, 1922.

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

"Supposin'," continued Ward, "that we let two o' your men an' two o' ourn, under Mr. Divine, shun up them cliffs back o' the cove an' search for water an' a site for camp—the rest o' us'll have our hands full with the salvage."

"Good," agreed Theriere. "Miller, you and Swenson will accompany Mr. Divine."

Ward detailed two of his men, and the party of five began the difficult ascent of the cliffs, while far above them a little brown man with beady black eyes set in narrow fleshy slits, watched them from behind a clump of bushes. Strange, medieval armor and two wicked-looking swords gave him a most warlike appearance. His temples were shaved, and a broad strip of the top of his head to just beyond the crown. His remaining hair was drawn into an unbraided queue, tied tightly at the back, and the queue then brought forward to the top of the forehead. His helmet lay in the grass at his feet. At the water approach of the party to the cliff top the watcher turned and melted into the forest at his back. He was Oda Yorimoto, descendant of a powerful daimio of the Ashikaga Dynasty of shoguns who had fled Japan with his faithful samurai nearly three hundred and fifty years before upon the overthrow of the Ashikaga Dynasty.

Upon this unfrequented and distant Japanese isle the exiles had retained all of their medieval military savagery, to which had been added the aboriginal ferocity of the head-hunting natives they had found there and with whom they had intermarried. The little colony, far from making any advances in arts and letters had, on the contrary, relapsed into primeval ignorance as deep as that of the natives with whom they had cast their lot—only in their arms and armor, their military training and discipline did they show any of the influence of their civilized progenitors.

They were cruel, crafty, resourceful wild men trapped in the habits of a dead past, and armed with the keen weapons of their forbears. They had not even the crude religion of the Malaysians they had absorbed unless a highly exaggerated propensity for head-hunting might be dignified by the name of religion. To the tender mercies of such as these were the castaways of the Half-moon likely to be consigned, for what might sixteen men with but four revolvers between them accomplish against near a thousand savage samurai?

Theriere, Ward, Simms and the remaining sailors at the beach busied themselves with the task of retrieving such of the wreckage and salvage of the Half-moon as the waves had deposited in the shallows of the beach. There were casks of fresh water, kegs of biscuit, clothing, limited meats and a similar heterogeneous mass of flotsam. This arduous labor consumed the best part of the afternoon, and it was not until it had been complete that Divine and his party returned to the beach.

They reported that they had discovered a spring of fresh water some three miles east of the cove and about half a mile inland, but it was decided that no attempt be made to transport the salvage or the party to the new camp site until the following morning.

Theriere and Divine erected a rude shelter for Barbara Harding close under the foot of the cliff, as far from the water as possible, while above them Oda Yorimoto watched their proceedings with beady, glittering eyes. This time a half-dozen of his fierce samurai crouched at his side. Besides their two swords these latest bore the primitive spears of their mothers' savage tribe.

Oda Yorimoto watched the white men upon the beach. Also, he watched the white girl—even more, possibly, than he watched the men. He saw the shelter that was being built, and when it was complete he saw the girl enter it, and he knew that it was for her alone. Oda Yorimoto sucked in his lips and his eyes narrowed even more than nature had intended that they should.

A fire burned before the rude domicile that Barbara Harding was to occupy, and another, larger fire roared a hundred yards to the west where the men were congregated about Blanco, who was attempting to evolve a meal from the miscellany of hisarder that had been cast up by the sea.

There seemed now but little to indicate that the party was divided into two bitter factions, but when the meal was over Theriere called his men to a point midway between Barbara's shelter and the main camp fire. Here he directed them to dispose themselves for the night as best they could, building a fire of their own if they chose, for with the coming of darkness the chill of the tropical night would render a fire more than acceptable.

All were thoroughly tired and exhausted, so that darkness had scarce fallen ere the entire camp seemed wrapped in slumber. And still Oda Yorimoto sat with his samurai upon the cliff's summit, his beady eyes fixed upon his intended prey.

For an hour he sat thus in silence, until, assured that all were asleep below him, he arose and with a few whispered instructions commenced the descent of the cliff toward the cove below. Scarce had he started, however, with his men stringing in single file behind him, than he came to a sudden halt, for below him in the camp that lay between the girl's shelter and the western camp a figure had arisen stealthily from among his fellows.

FIRST TO SCALE HIGH PEAK

After being twice driven back by tumbling rocks released through melting snow, James W. Alexander, assistant professor of mathematics at Princeton University, accomplished the seemingly impossible in penetrating the heretofore inaccessible Chasm Lake approach to reach the summit of Long's Peak, in Rocky Mountain National Park, Colorado. Near the top he crawled along a narrow ledge overlooking a sheer drop of 2000 feet. He cut seventy-six steps in the ice to cross a glacier at the foot, and on reaching the summit scrawled his name in the register of the Colorado Mountain club. Chasm Lake is shown in the foreground. Mere man shrinks into insignificance before the granite throne, four times as high as the Washington monument.

ELECTROMAGNETISM

If a wire which carries a current is bent into a circle the magnetic field is in the direction shown in Fig. 1. At the center of the circle the field is uniform only for a very small area. If many turns are wound close together in what may be called a bunched winding, the intensity of the magnetic field is increased in direct proportion to the number of turns. When the wire is wound closely along the surface of a cylinder, the coil is called a "solenoid." Fig. 2. In this case the magnetic field is nearly uniform for a considerable distance near the center of the coil, and the solenoid has would be possible to obtain the same magnetizing effect with many turns of wire and a weaker current, or with a few turns of wire and a strong current, provided only that the product of wire turns times amperes of current is the same in each case. This product is called the "ampere-turns."

Magnetic Induction and Permeability

If the space within the solenoid is filled with iron, the magnetizing effect is very greatly increased. This is due to a property of iron called magnetic "permeability." To say that iron is more permeable than air means magnetism is stronger when iron is present than it would be if the space were filled with air alone.

Permeability varies according to the qualities of the iron from a few units to a few thousand. For example, to say that the permeability of a certain sample of iron is 1,000, means that the magnetic flux through 1 centimeter of cross section is 1,000 times as great as the flux through the same area before the iron was present. The total magnetic flux through an iron core within a magnetizing coil, divided by the area of cross section, gives the magnetic induction.

The properties of a bar magnet, known as the "magnetic flux," density within the solenoid, depend entirely upon the strength of the current and the number of turns of wire per centimeter. It

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BROKEN CHAIR

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy was out in the kitchen one day, making a carrot shortcake, when all of sudden there sounded a loud crash in the living room of the hollow stump bungalow.

"Merciful goodness! Something has happened to Uncle Wiggily!" cried the muskrat lady housekeeper, for the bunny rabbit gentleman was in the living room.

Dropping the pan in which she was mixing the cake, and with her paws covered with flour, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy ran to the door of the living room. In the center of the floor she saw Uncle Wiggily sitting down, and about him were the arms, legs, seat and back of his easy chair.

"My goodness, Wiggily! What are you doing?" cried Nurse Jane.

"Nothing now! I'm not doing anything!" answered the bunny rabbit easy like and unconcerned. "It's all done."

"But what did you do?" asked Nurse Jane. "Surely something happened, Uncle Wiggily."

"Yes," was the answer, "something happened. My chair broke with me and I fell."

"It's a wonder you weren't hurt," went on Nurse Jane. "How did it happen?"

"Well, either I am getting too heavy or the chair is too weak to hold me up any more," answered the bunny rabbit. "Not that it much matters, for here I am, and as for the chair, I'll throw it out for junk."

"You don't do that!" cried Nurse Jane. "Perhaps the chair can be mended. All I see broken are the legs. They can be glued in again."

"I'll never sit in it!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "and I wouldn't want Mrs. Twistytail, the pig lady, to sit in it even after it is glued. She would break it down."

"Maybe," said Nurse Jane. "But don't throw away the broken chair. I'm sure you can mend it and it will do for some of the animal children to sit on when they come to see you. They are not very heavy. Do, Wiggily, get some glue and mend your broken chair."

"I will," said the bunny gentleman. "As you say, the legs are about all that are broken, and they are not so much broken as that they have slipped out of the holes in the seat. I'll hop along, get some glue, and mend my chair. But I won't call it my chair after it is mended. It will not be safe."

Giving his pink nose an extra wrinkle or two to make sure no harm had come to it in his fall, Uncle Wiggily started out over the fields and through the woods.

"I'll get some glue from the Monkey Doodle doll doctor," thought the bunny rabbit. "He always has some to mend broken toys."

Reaching the hospital of the Monkey Doodle doll doctor, Uncle Wiggily asked for some very strong glue.

"Here is some glue that would mend broken promises, it is so strong!" chuckled the Monkey Doodle.

"Then it ought to mend my broken chair," laughed Uncle Wiggily.

"Be careful not to get any of this glue on you, and if you do, don't lean up against anything, or sit down," cautioned the doll doctor.

"Why?" asked Uncle Wiggily, looking at the tube of glue.

"Because, if you do," went on the Monkey Doodle, "you may stick fast and I'll need to come with a kettle of warm water and thaw you loose, as you once did for me."

"Oh, that's right! I remember!" chuckled the bunny. "Well, I'll be careful not to get stuck in my own glue."

Reaching his hollow stump bungalow, Uncle Wiggily began to mend his broken chair. He put some glue on each of the four legs and then stuck the legs in the holes underneath the chair seat. Uncle Wiggily pressed the legs into the seat, leaving the tube of glue on the chair bottom.

"There, I guess that will be all right," said the bunny gentleman.

"Be careful not to get any of this glue on you, and if you do, don't lean up against anything, or sit down," cautioned the doll doctor.

BENJAMIN BEATS O'HARA IN THIRD

Lightweight Boys Put Up Great Battle; Results of Other Games

Joe Benjamin, a nationally known lightweight boxer, last night went true to form at the Vernon arena and defeated Teddy O'Hara in one of the most exciting main events staged in these parts for several weeks. The victory came, however, after O'Hara had put up one of the best fights of his career.

The boys started out exchanging blows, Benjamin soon taking the lead when it came to points. The first round was his without a murmur and things seemed to be pointing toward an easy victory over the plucky O'Hara. But things changed during the next stanza, the latter part of the round being distinctly Teddy's. Suddenly he had developed a left to the face and head that had the crafty Benjamin guessing.

At the beginning of the third, O'Hara opened up with a straight jab to Benjamin's nose, drawing a free flow of blood and reeling his opponent toward the edge of the ring. Here Benjamin pulled himself together, and with a sudden fusillade of rights and lefts, soon had O'Hara out on a technical knockout.

The other bouts on the evening's schedule resulted as follows:

Bobby Allen defeated Bud Soules; Benny Kilroy received a draw decision from Joe Layman. Frankie Novey stopped Ray Shauer in the fourth round. Joe Murphy knocked out Red Davis in the opening round. Fred Brady and Eddie Bowen drew, and Al Crisp trimmed Al Guillot.

Small Chance of Game

But little hope is being held out by Southern California alumni members of Iowa university regarding the possibility of an intercollegiate football clash between the Hawkeyes and the University of Southern California next fall. Head Coach Howard Jones of last year's Big Ten conference champions and recently victors over Yale announced yesterday that he thought it highly improbable that such a game could be staged. The reason was given that the directors of the conference recently passed a ruling whereby preference should be shown in scheduling intercollegiate games according to the distances away from Iowa City.

If the proposed contest should finally be put through it would probably outrun even the California-U. S. C. game. With the thousands of Iowans who are living in the Southland a large proportion of those who had never seen a football game would turn out just for the purpose of witnessing something from the old home state. Here's hoping the difficulties may yet be smoothed out and the game be played in Los Angeles next fall.

BOXING SHOW FOR TONIGHT IS OFF

Hall Previously Rented for Another Event Prevents Ring Performances

As was announced following last Wednesday night's fights the weekly boxing show which was originally scheduled to take place tonight at the Yeoman hall, 1500 South San Fernando road, has been called off by the boxing committee of the Modern Woodmen of America. The reason for the postponement lies in the fact that the hall had been previously rented for the day by the Thursday Afternoon club, which is conducting a bazaar for several days.

The regular schedule of four round contests will be resumed next Wednesday night, however, Manager C. M. Hare having already announced the following card: Joe Kelly of the Central Athletic club vs. Ted Southern of the Columbia Athletic club; Kid Essick of Glendale vs. Jimmy West of the Columbia A. C.; Joe Eyrard of Glendale vs. Battling Chico, Hollywood; Kid Sardine of the Columbia A. C. vs. Jimmy Jones, Los Angeles; Jimmy Burns vs. Irish Cleary.

Invite N. Y. Giants to Train on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Announcement was made today that the New York Giants have been invited by the San Francisco baseball club to train here in California next spring. If the invitation is accepted, the Giants will come here shortly before the 1st of March and take advantage of several weeks of California weather. They may make their headquarters at San Diego, playing exhibition games regularly with Los Angeles and San Francisco, and thereby getting in about two weeks of pre-season games. Paso Robles and Boyes Springs are also possible headquarters.

The area of the moon's surface is about equal to that of North and South America combined.

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Although Manhattan ceased to be a frontier long since for anything beyond good intentions and bad liquor, Tex Austin, western promoter with a two-gallon hat and an expansive smile, is bringing Cheyenne's famous frontier day to Madison Square Garden and declares that all the good ones west of the Mississippi are coming on for the affair. It will begin, according to Tex's billing, on November 24, and continue for ten days thereafter with the competitors' shooting after a world's championship and $25,000 in cash prizes.

Austin had a glib list of names at his disposal when asked today for details. Among others he mentioned Howard Teglen of Salt Creek, Wyo., winner of the broncho-riding contest at Cheyenne, Pendleton, Ore., and Bozeman, Mont.; Kakima Canutt of La Crosse, Wis., who beat all the riders at Fort Worth, Colorado Springs, Garden City, Kan., and Weiser, Idaho; Mike Hastings of Pendleton and El Paso; Fred Beeson, Jim Massey, Ben Johnson, Billy Kingham and a dozen others.

Some of the cowboy champions are already on the ground, Austin declared, and the rest of them are leaving Cheyenne at noon today by special train. "Unlike some champions in other sports, they do so at their own expense, their only reward being whatever glory may be theirs and a fling at the cash prizes, the largest of which, $600, will go to the winner of the grand finals for the broncho-riding championship of the world." The quotes are Austin's own.

Other events include steer wrestling, calf riding, fancy roping, trick and fancy riding, cow girl broncho riding, steer riding, wild cow milking and a wild horse race.

An added feature of the program is the cow girl broncho riding event. In this have been entered Mabel Strickland of Fort Worth, Texas, who won the trophy for girls at Cheyenne; Fox Hastings of Pendleton, Ore.; Bonnie McCarrall of Boise, Idaho, and Lorena Trickey of Cheyenne.

Thus far this season the cry from football coaches regarding injuries received by men in their squads has been exceedingly mild and the cases of players being incapacitated has been unusually small. Of course, there have been instances of one or two prominent players, here and there, forced out of the play owing to hurts, but it is likely there have been few, if any, previous seasons as free from this as at the present time.

As a matter of fact, the public has become accustomed to take the matter of injury to a player with a grain of salt as being propaganda thrown out to get the opposing teams off their guard and overconfident. Doubtless this propaganda element does enter in, but probably not to the extent that some persons believe.

The history of games being called off because of injuries to men on a team records no such example. The crippled team usually has gone into the fray with the intention of doing the best possible with the available material. It would generally be looked on as more or less like cowardice for a team to excuse itself in this way, whatever the right of the case might be.

On the other hand, we have the record of the Santa Clara university team of California disbanding in midseason of 1920 for the reason that practically all of its men were sick. Hurts and bruises are one thing but sickness is a horse of another color. From some cause that never has been exactly determined, the Santa Clara team became affected with a skin trouble, besides which there was an accompanying loss of vitality and strength.

It is not difficult to understand how an entire squad can become afflicted by a communicable disease. The men are in close companionship through their training and the physical contact on the field easily could spread anything of a catching nature.

In the fall of 1894 Princeton also had a similar experience to the Santa Clara, but the conditions were not such as to disband the team. However, many of their effective were out of condition, and there is no doubt that the defeats of that year are directly attributable to this cause. The year before, with practically the same personnel, the Princetonians won the championship, going through the season without a defeat.

There is a vast difference between the loss that one man may be to one team, and as it affects another. A man around whom a coach builds a team, becomes a desperate loss that upset the entire system. This is not the case where there are not outstanding players on an eleven.

That Paul Neiman won the national A. A. U. cross country junior championship at San Francisco six miles in 21 minutes 57.45 seconds.

That U. S. Revolver association announced that the Denver, Colo., team won the national title.

That Robert Kinsley won the San Francisco Bay Cities tennis championship at Berkeley, Calif., defeating Phil Bettens.

That Chuck Wiggins won twenty round decision over Martin Burke at New Orleans, La.

That Jimmie Barrett, former Detroit center fielder, died from apoplexy at Detroit.

That a check for $30,000 was sent to Christy Mathewson at the tuberculosis hospital at Saranac, N. Y., this being the proceeds of benefit game played in New York.

That the Canadian schooner Bluenose won the second and deciding race in the fishermen's international yacht races at Halifax, N. S.

That Ray Caldwell was unofficially released by the Cleveland club.

That W. M. (Bat) Masterson, nationally famed sports writer, died of heart trouble while at work at his office at New York. He was sports editor of the New York Telegraph.

That Eugene Cricqui, leading French bantamboxer, knocked out Spaniers in second round at Paris.

That Marion Hollis and Mrs. W. Gavin defeated Misses Cecil and Edith Leitch, British champions, one up in a four-ball foursome at Balmure, N. J., golf club.

That Joe Lynch lost a twelve-round decision to Phil O'Dowd at New York.

That the New York boxing commission announced a new ruling limiting managers of boxers to not more than one-third of the boxer's earnings.

That Tom Huston of Los Angeles in the national pocket billiard championship at Philadelphia made a long run of 56 in the

PLAN COLLEGE TO TEACH BASEBALL

First Institution Of Its Kind to Open In City of Burbank Soon

The first baseball college in history, to be known as the National College of Baseball, is to be located in Burbank, according to notices received from that city. The first step in the establishment of the college was taken on Sunday afternoon when a crowd witnessed the dedication of the grounds made by Edith Roberts, Louis B. Mayer movie star.

The site selected consists of seven acres owned by R. O. Church and is said to have been leased for a period of five years. Work is to be started at once to lay out the diamonds of which there will be three, and the building of dressing rooms, shower baths and recreation quarters.

It is expected that the opening will be on January 10. Baseball professionals of national reputation are said to be back of the college. Frank Chance is to act in an advisory capacity, while the list of instructors is said to include Jim Scott, Sam Crawford, Frank Dillon, George (Rube) Ellis, Jess W. Orndorff, Jerry Downs, George Wheeler and Walter Boles.

R. W. Colburn of Burbank is to be the treasurer and general manager.

Three Courses Yearly

At least three courses a year, of three months each, will be given students. During the period of the courses the students will be given training that will turn out experienced players, doing away with the method of jumping from one team to another in an effort to get proper training, it is stated.

It is possible that by the end of the first year dormitories, a club house and commissary will be built. In the meantime the students will be taken care of in the city.

GLENDALE SQUAD WINS ONE MORE

Local Lightweights Defeat South Pasadena's Team by 7 to 0 Score

Coach Howard Butterfield's fast lightweight football squad yesterday advanced one notch nearer its second successive Central league championship by defeating the South Pasadena 130-pounders 7 to 0. The contest, which was considered to be the hardest on the schedule for the locals, was played on the losers' field, several hundred ardent watchers from this city being in attendance.

Playing on practically an even basis from the start the two teams spent most of the first part of the game in the center of the field. However, in the third quarter the Red and Black athletes gradually surged toward the opposite goal line until they were in a position, just after the beginning of the final period, where Le France, Glendale's diminutive quarterback, was able to sneak over for a touchdown. This was made possible by a thirty-yard run by Roberts, ten by White and two intercepted South Pasadena passes by White and Le France. Lovell, who replaced Shuler in the last quarter, converted with a perfectly placed drop kick. The line-ups:

Student Bodies May Clash During Game

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 25.—The meeting between student bodies of University of California and University of Southern California when the football teams of the two institutions meet in Los Angeles Saturday as an aftermath of an alleged invasion of the campus of the Los Angeles branch of the northern institution and the acid hazing of William Sykes, engaged the attention of university officials today.

In spite of the characterization of the campus invasion in which several were seriously injured as "unpardonable violation of Agent Leman's agreement," President David P. Barrows of University of California declared there would be no trouble Saturday. "We do not propose to stoop to reprisal in any form when we go south to Saturday's game," he said. "This student body is older than that of the southern branch. We have had a long period of self-discipline. We are trained in self-control. Let us carry it with us when we go south to the game."

Carpentier Seeking Battle With Siki

PARIS, Oct. 25.—Georges Carpentier has issued a formal challenge to Battling Siki for a return bout, the month's interim provided by the French Boxing Federation rules having elapsed since the Senegalese captured the heavyweight championship of Europe by his sensational knockout of Carpentier in the sixth round of their meeting here. Francois Desamps, Carpentier's manager, is now awaiting a reply.

Art Garen Unable to Play on Friday

Art Garen, all-conference full-back last year, and the mainstay of the Occidental backfield so far this season, is out of the game with Whittier next Friday with a dislocated shoulder, and may not be able to play again this season. Yesterday he was ambling around the Tiger institution with his arm in a sling.

ROTARIANS TO HONOLULU

Members of the Glendale Rotary club have received word to the effect that when the giant steamship H. F. Alexander sails from San Francisco on January 4, she will have on board a jolly party of rotarians bound for Honolulu. The occasion for the cruise is the inter-city visit to the clubs of Hilo and Honolulu made by the clubs of the second district, which embraces California, Nevada and Arizona, a total of forty-three clubs.

The itinerary arranged is one that is calculated to appeal to the Rotarians in that they will be away from home but sixteen days, but will have time to enjoy the wonders of the islands.

The ship will arrive in Los Angeles harbor on the morning of the fifth where those from southern California will board her, proceeding to Hilo which is reached in five days.

RIVERSIDE HAS SYSTEM

The Riverside police have a way of impressing visiting motorists that they must obey the speed laws in that city, but at the same time they are making friends for the city, according to James M. Rhoades of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

A party of friends, was stopped by a motorcycle officer who informed them that they were exceeding the speed limit of Riverside. Mr. Rhoades replied that he did not know that they were in Riverside but if guilty of breaking the law would expect to stand the consequences.

The officer noticing a Glendale sign said that they were not anxious to inconvenience the party, making him come back to appear. But that the laws must be obeyed. After impressing upon the party the necessity for arresting offenders, he acted in a very courteous manner telling them he would not hold them as they were visitors.

"If you lived in Riverside I'd have to give you a card," he said. "The Glendale party now has a good word for Riverside police, but can bet we will be more careful when we go there again," says Mr. Rhoades.

ART CLUB HOLDS SESSION

Saturday night with about thirty-five present, occurred the initiation of new members into the Art Club of the Glendale Union High school. This club receives pupils of the third-year work in art.

The walls were decorated with drawings of circus animals in most artistic and futuristic style, and the initiates were each given twenty minutes to write a play in which some of these strange animals had a part. The results when read furnished the fun of the evening.

The three art instructors were present, and all acted very well dressed in the most comical costumes contrivable.

BOOST FOR GLENDALE

California Real Estate, the official journal of the California Real Estate association, in the October issue publishes a small story about Glendale, playing up the story, however, by putting it in a special box in a prominent position. The story is headed "Glendale Realtors Making Business Hum." Here's the story:

"Glendale is keeping her record of the fastest-growing city in America. The total assessed valuation, as determined for taxation purposes, shows a remarkable growth of the city for the year. Last year's assessed valuation was $12,476,000 and for 1922-1923, it is $21,968,000, according to the Glendale Realty board."

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Henry Wilkens, auto mechanic on trial for the murder of his wife, weakly mounted the witness stand again today for the third day's grilling. His nerves shattered by his grueling cross-examination, friends feared his total collapse on the stand. Three times fits of weeping have temporarily halted his testimony.

The state registrar, as highly important admission on the stand that he now believes the murder car was a Hudson and not a Dodge as he had previously steadfastly maintained and that the men in the murder car were Walter and Arthur Castor.

THEATRES

The Glendale

Lewis Stone, famous star of stage and screen, who appears in "The Prisoner of Zenda" now at the Glendale theatre, has startled the film world with his demand for the abolition of the close-up. "Nine-foot heads with popping eyes that make little children scream with fear" is his way of describing them.

An interesting story about Mr. Stone is that he is the hero of two wars. When nineteen he enlisted with the 12th New York Volunteer Infantry at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war and served in Cuba. In 1917 he attended the first reserve officers' training camp at Plattsburg and served as an infantry captain.

75 Million Men In Armies During War

BERLIN.—Seventy-five million men were mobilized by all belligerent nations during the world war, according to statistics issued by the German authorities. This is more than the entire population of Germany, which amounts to about sixty-five millions.

Germany alone had 13,350,000 men under arms, of which no less than eight millions fought in the fighting lines up to the last minute.

When the armistice was concluded the complete strength of the German Army was 190 infantry divisions and five cavalry divisions. The army then had the following war material at its disposal:

Light machine guns, 32,218; heavy machine guns, 27,134; heavy guns, 2,083; mine throwers, 8,445; field guns, 5,552; field howitzers, 3,158; naval guns (long range), 1,747; air defense guns, 1,137; horses, 764,563.

Eighty-five per cent of this material has been destroyed under the provisions of the Versailles Treaty.

Adult French Class Will Be Organized

An adult class in French will be organized at 7 o'clock tomorrow night in bungalow 301 on the high school grounds under the auspices of the Extension Division of the University of California.

Mrs. Ethel W. Bailey will instruct the class. During the past four years she has been connected with the University Extension work through its San Diego branch of which she was in charge. She is now a member of the faculty of Glendale Union High school.

An enrollment of ten students is necessary in order for the course to be given in Glendale. It is divided into six units, each one of which entails fifteen hours of recitation. Upon the completion of the course six units of college credit can be obtained. The elementary course will prepare any student for the matriculation examination to be given at the university in January.

Parents Won't Waive Safety of Daughter

AKRON.—Because her parents declined to sign a paper releasing the school board from responsibility for accidents at a dangerous crossing, Mary Hitchcock, fourteen years old, has been barred from Akron's public schools. The crossing is between her home and the school.

The board threatens to send a trustee officer after her, and her parents do not oppose this, since it will provide a protector for the child.

The T. D. & L.

More than 2,000 Glendadians witnessed the first presentation of "Manslaughter" yesterday at the T. D. & L. theatre, according to reports.

To the other 30,000 Glendadians Ralph Allan says, "Manslaughter" is unquestionably the greatest picture and without reservation the finest film production ever presented in Glendale.

"It is a whirlwind for action, the most lavish picture produced in years. It will be shown today and tonight at the T. D. and L. burg and served as an infantry captain.

Four Railroad Men Killed In Accident

BEND, Ore., Oct. 25.—No inquiry will be held today, authorities decided, over the bodies of four train crew members who were killed yesterday when crushed between the cab and water tank of a Sevelin-Hixon logging locomotive by a runaway flat car. The dead are:

Edward Barker, engineer; Fabian Begin, brakeman; R. M. Joyce, conductor, and Edgar Davis, fireman.

Authorities decided that the tragedy defied the utmost precaution. The flat car, loaded with steel, slipped away from the crew and gathered such momentum that it could not be stopped or overtaken.

One Room Bungalow at Pacific School

Contract for the construction of a one-room bungalow on the Pacific school grounds was awarded to Contractor Elmer Elliott of 612 East Elm avenue last night by the grammar school board of education. His bid was $802.50. Work is to be commenced immediately and the bungalow is to be completed by November 4.

The building of this bungalow was decided upon by the board after the plan to move a bungalow from the Columbus school was rejected. The board decided that it would be foolish to take such action when it would probably mean the necessity of having a substitute bungalow built next year on the Columbus school grounds.

Liquor Ruling Is Sidetracked, Word

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The government today sidetracked, to all practical purposes, Attorney General Daugherty's ruling outlawing liquor on foreign ships in American waters.

Until the United States supreme court hands down a decision in the hole matter, enforcement of the Daugherty mandate, as it affects foreign vessels, is to be suspended. Foreign ship owners were granted an indefinite stay by the treasury department which is charged with enforcement of the ruling.

Grandma Smith Goes To Colton on Visit

"Grandma" Esther Smith, third oldest member of the Evening News Sunset club, who has been spending the summer at the home of her son at 410 East Broadway, has gone to Colton to be the winter guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop.

Glendale claims "Grandma" as her third oldest resident, even if she resides here only part of the year, and her ninety-fifth birthday March 1, is being anticipated with interest by her many friends.

IF Everyone Knew— Everyone Would Do

Their Family Wash the Glendale Latndry Way

If the women of Glendale and the vicinity realized the advantages of our Family Wash Service, every one of them would insist upon having their clothes washed this way—especially in winter, when weather and washerwomen seem equally unreliable.

Glendale Laundry Service is, first of all, convenient. All you have to do is phone us once and have your name put on our list of regular customers, and thereafter give your bundle to the driver each week.

Glendale Laundry Service is 100% reliable. Just as regularly as a new week arrives, our truck arrives at your door. And on the appointed day each week your clothes are returned, exquisitely clean and sweet-smelling, carefully pressed and folded, ready for use. The high character of our work never varies.

S. A. DAVIS HAS IDEA FOR SAVING

County Architect Would Be Means of Conserving Big Sum, Says Official

S. A. Davis, member of Glendale's City Council, has a suggestion to make relative to saving a considerable sum of the taxpayers' money. It's a novel idea and is given herewith just as presented by Councilman Davis:

Editor The Evening News—The one thing that is uppermost in nearly everyone's mind today is taxes. It is true, they are high and no doubt too high to justify the owning of certain classes of property. But it is hard to see much relief in sight in the way of actual reductions, especially when municipalities are growing so fast and the various governments of city, county and schools are called on for so many things which are demanded by rapid growth.

This condition makes low taxes impossible and the slight reductions hard to realize. However, the time has come when these increases can not go on forever unabated or unchecked and it stands every taxpayer to do his bit toward the unnecessary expenditure of public money in every way, to even accomplish the slowing up the increasing taxes let alone reducing them.

I have in mind a proposition which no doubt can be worked out and put into effect which would save hundreds of thousands of dollars every year to the taxpayers of Los Angeles county. That is the establishment by the county of an office, the title of which would be County Architect of Schools. The services of this office could be at the disposal of every school district in the county to aid them in erecting their school buildings, and thus saving a greater part of the large architectural fees paid out of the taxpayers' money; this money is paid by money raised by bonds and the amount is doubled before the bond is paid. Therefore, a dollar saved is in reality two dollars saved.

This plan, or any plan however right and just, will meet with strong opposition, as everything does when you attempt to save public money for the benefit of the whole at the expense of private individuals. The argument will be put forward that you could not hire a competent architect to take the job. You likewise could say that you could not hire on a salary a competent engineer to take the job of county or city engineer of Los Angeles, and thereby say that all plans of bridges, roads, streets, sewers, etc., should be let out to competent engineers on a percentage basis as our school buildings are. The facts are that there are a lot of architects that have ability in their line, but they are not able through their personality to sell themselves to the public and they do the work for the fellow that can—at a nominal wage.

Glendale High school pays six per cent for architectural fees on $600,000. This is $36,000, or rather $72,000 when the bond is paid that furnishes the money. This would help pay a very good salary for several years. Savings of this or similar kind will have to be made and all frivolous and unnecessary expenditure of money will have to be cut out if you even hope to stop the increase of taxes, let alone reduce them.

Need U. S. In League, Says Lloyd George

LONDON, Oct. 25.—"Until the United States enters the League of Nations, it is not effective," declared Former Premier Lloyd George in a campaign speech today. "Our policy must be to work with the United States. We have more in common than with the other countries. Our ideals are the same. Together Britain and the United States can insure a just and lasting peace."

Lloyd George said he would make all concessions possible to get the United States into the league.

LABOR SECRETARY AIDS RED CROSS

U. S. Cabinet Member Says Mercy Organization Big Aid in War, Peace

The approaching roll call and drive for membership of the National Red Cross, which will be held throughout the country from November 11 to November 30, is bringing good words for the campaign. Among those who have sent greetings to the national headquarters is Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who says:

"In the days of speed and scramble, surrounded as we are by the wonders of mechanical science and invention, highly organized for material progress, we are all too apt to forget the needs of mere humanity. We cannot too often turn from the complicated processes of modern civilized life and devote some small attention to our fellowman in his distress and misery. America, repository of all that is best in our civilization today owes a peculiar duty to itself and to the world. It above all other nations must foster man's humanity to man. This duty we are performing, year by year, through the support we accord to the American Red Cross, the nation's splendid agency for the relief of suffering. More than four million American men and women are enlisted under the banner of

The Red Cross for the constant campaign against disease and disaster, misery and suffering in peace and war. They are a mighty force for good.

Great Work in War
"The army and navy knows the aid of this great organization. In hospitals throughout the land it is at work serving the men who fought for America in the great war. In city and country, fire and flood find it ever present to relieve the afflicted. It is guarding the public health, working to avert accidents and training the children of America for service to the future. Its helping hand and willing heart is known wherever men and women or children gather together in adversity throughout the world."

"No greater service can an American give to humanity today than active support to the Red Cross. Its annual roll call should call forth the best in every one of us, and prompt us to extend our help by practical work and by contributing funds to this great cause. It is a cause to which we owe an allegiance that none may forsake, to which we owe a duty that none may shirk."

Mrs. John Robert White, Jr., of 347 North Orange street, secretary of the Glendale chapter of the American Red Cross, will be the local chairman of the membership drive, and is completing plans for districting the city into precincts and arranging committees for a house to house canvass.

Affair Is Held With Local Chamber; Interesting Speakers on Program

become chiropractors. It was also explained that there would be no additional cost to the people under the proposed change.

Henry W. Wright, Los Angeles county supervisor, in speaking of the growth of the state, said: "Things grow so fast in California that you can't lie about them."

The board of supervisors rely to a great extent upon the recommendations of the various chamber of commerce organizations. Mr. Wright told the members. In tellings of the field which the county covers he stated that the assessed valuation of the county is $1,400,000,000, the population 1,300,000 and 409,000 square miles covered.

He also called attention to a number of matters up for vote that will assist the board of supervisors in its work. The need for more buildings at the county hospital, a larger county jail, improvements at the county farm and a number of other needs were outlined.

It was pointed out that at the present time there are 300 children being handled by the juvenile court, while 3200 are out on probation. Aid is being given 3500 needy families by the county.

Slot Machines for Saving at Schools

Machinery is being installed this week in the Wilson Avenue Intermediate and Broadway schools for the teaching of thrift. The Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank, through its Brand boulevard branch, obtained permission last night from the grammar school board of education to install savings-stamp vending machines at these schools.

These slot machines will issue stamps in denominations of 1, 5, 10 and 25 cents. These stamps can then be pasted by the pupils on individual cards similar to those issued by the government for war savings stamps. When the card is full, it will be taken to the bank and exchanged for a bank book. All funds deposited by the children will draw the regular 4 per cent interest.

Both Mrs. Mary O. Ryan, principal of the Broadway school, and Miss Carrie Noble, principal of the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school, are in favor of the scheme.

Brings United States In British Strife

LONDON, Oct. 25.—In a fighting speech before leaders of the national liberal party, former Lloyd George today brought the United States into the British political campaign as an issue. At the same time he appealed for national unity as the best means of extricating the nation from post war difficulties.

Much Brick Work
Difficulty in obtaining lime has delayed the commencement of the brick work. Sand and other ingredients are now on the job and the mortar will be mixed at once as soon as the lime can be obtained. C. N. Miller of Eagle Rock, who has charge of this phase of the work, hopes that he can start a gang of bricklayers tomorrow. When the work is well under way, he expects to use about fifty-five men.

The exterior of the church is to be of brick. The cost of the brick work has been estimated at $60,000. Mr. Miller believes that it will take three or four months to lay the million bricks which will be used.

As soon as the iron framework is in place, the interior carpenter work will be commenced. About 3000 feet of lumber was used for the concrete forms. This is being used over again in the sub-flooring. About 50,000 more feet of lumber will be required. The cost of the carpenter work will be about $23,000.

Fireman Killed In High School Fire

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 25.—Fire of undetermined origin swept Washington High school this morning, completely gutted the building and cost the life of one fireman and property damage estimated at $500,000.

O. B. Gabriel, fireman, was instantly killed when falling walls of the building crushed him. Several other firemen received painful injuries in the crash.

A slight drizzle falling probably prevented a conflagration on the east side. A high wind fanned the flames and carried firebrands for miles.

Fully twenty minutes elapsed before residents were able to call the fire department, due to demoralized telephone service. A general alarm was sounded.

Today 1700 high school students are without rooms to continue classes. Vacant rooms in nearby schools and other Portland high schools will be filled up within a few days, the school board said.
